Over 100 Canadians join Courage in Motion bike ride

The fundraising ride, now in its 11th year, has grown steadily in popularity over its first decade and this year, like many before, was sold-out. This initiative of Beit Halochem Canada, Aid to Disabled Veterans of Israel welcomed cyclists from across Canada, joined by some Americans and Israelis. From October 22-26, international cyclists rode alongside Israel's disabled veterans on four fully supported routes taking them through southern Israel's remarkable archaeological landmarks and breath-taking landscapes.

With fundraising open until December 31, 2018, it is expected that Courage in Motion 2018 will raise approximately C$850,000. Cyclists' efforts enabled members of Zahal Disabled Veterans Organization/ Beit Halochem to participate in the ride and will also fund programming at Beit Halochem Centres in Beer She'eva, Haifa, Jerusalem, and Tel Aviv.

It's evident that our cyclists embrace the aspect of riding alongside those who are directly helped by their efforts. This D'Ornellas cycled comyear, we're incredibly proud that more than 120 wounded Israeli veterans participated due to the fundraising by our 110 Canadian riders. We are also gratified that many of our Canadian participants feel that they get more out of the experience than the disabled veterans."

While many cyclists return year after year, several others were new to Courage in Motion 2018. Two of these first-time participants are internationally renowned sports figures and we were pleased they joined the ride. Among them Toronto-born Keith Primeau was a National Hockey League star.

Also participating was cycling champion Eon D'Ornellas. Born in Guyana, petitively from the age of 14 before immigrating to Canada with his family.

All Courage in Motion's participants enjoyed group activities following each day's ride including a night walking tour of Jerusalem and an extraordinary evening with Israel's Heroes, members of Beit Halochem, who shared their remarkable personal stories of tragedy and triumph.

Next year's Courage in Motion takes place in Israel from October 27 – 31, 2019. Registration is expected to open in March 2019.
